SEA SERPENTS AND MONSTERS!

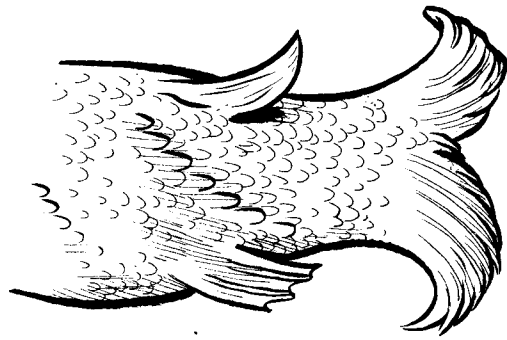

In days long past pirates would claim to see many types of creatures out at sea. Many times their imaginations would combine one animal with another, and then a new monster would be born. Draw the missing parts however you want, and then fill in the blank to give your new animal an interesting name!

DESIGN YOUR OWN PIRATE FLAG!

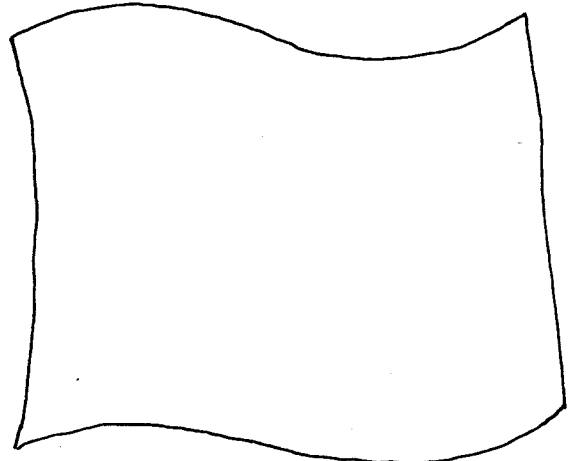

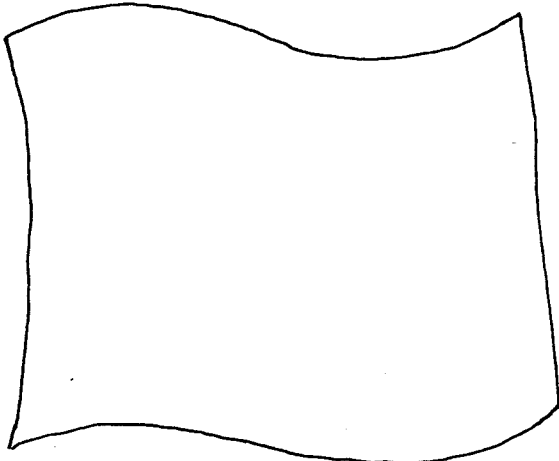

When creating your own flag, think about what you like to do. Walker Bean likes to draw, so his flag reflects that. Shiv likes music, so his flag shows that. Pirates in the past wanted to scare people with their flags. Draw some ideas in the blank areas below, and then when you've got your idea, draw a larger one on a new piece of paper. Hang it up to warn people what's going on when you get there!

Edward Teach (Blackbeard the Pirate)

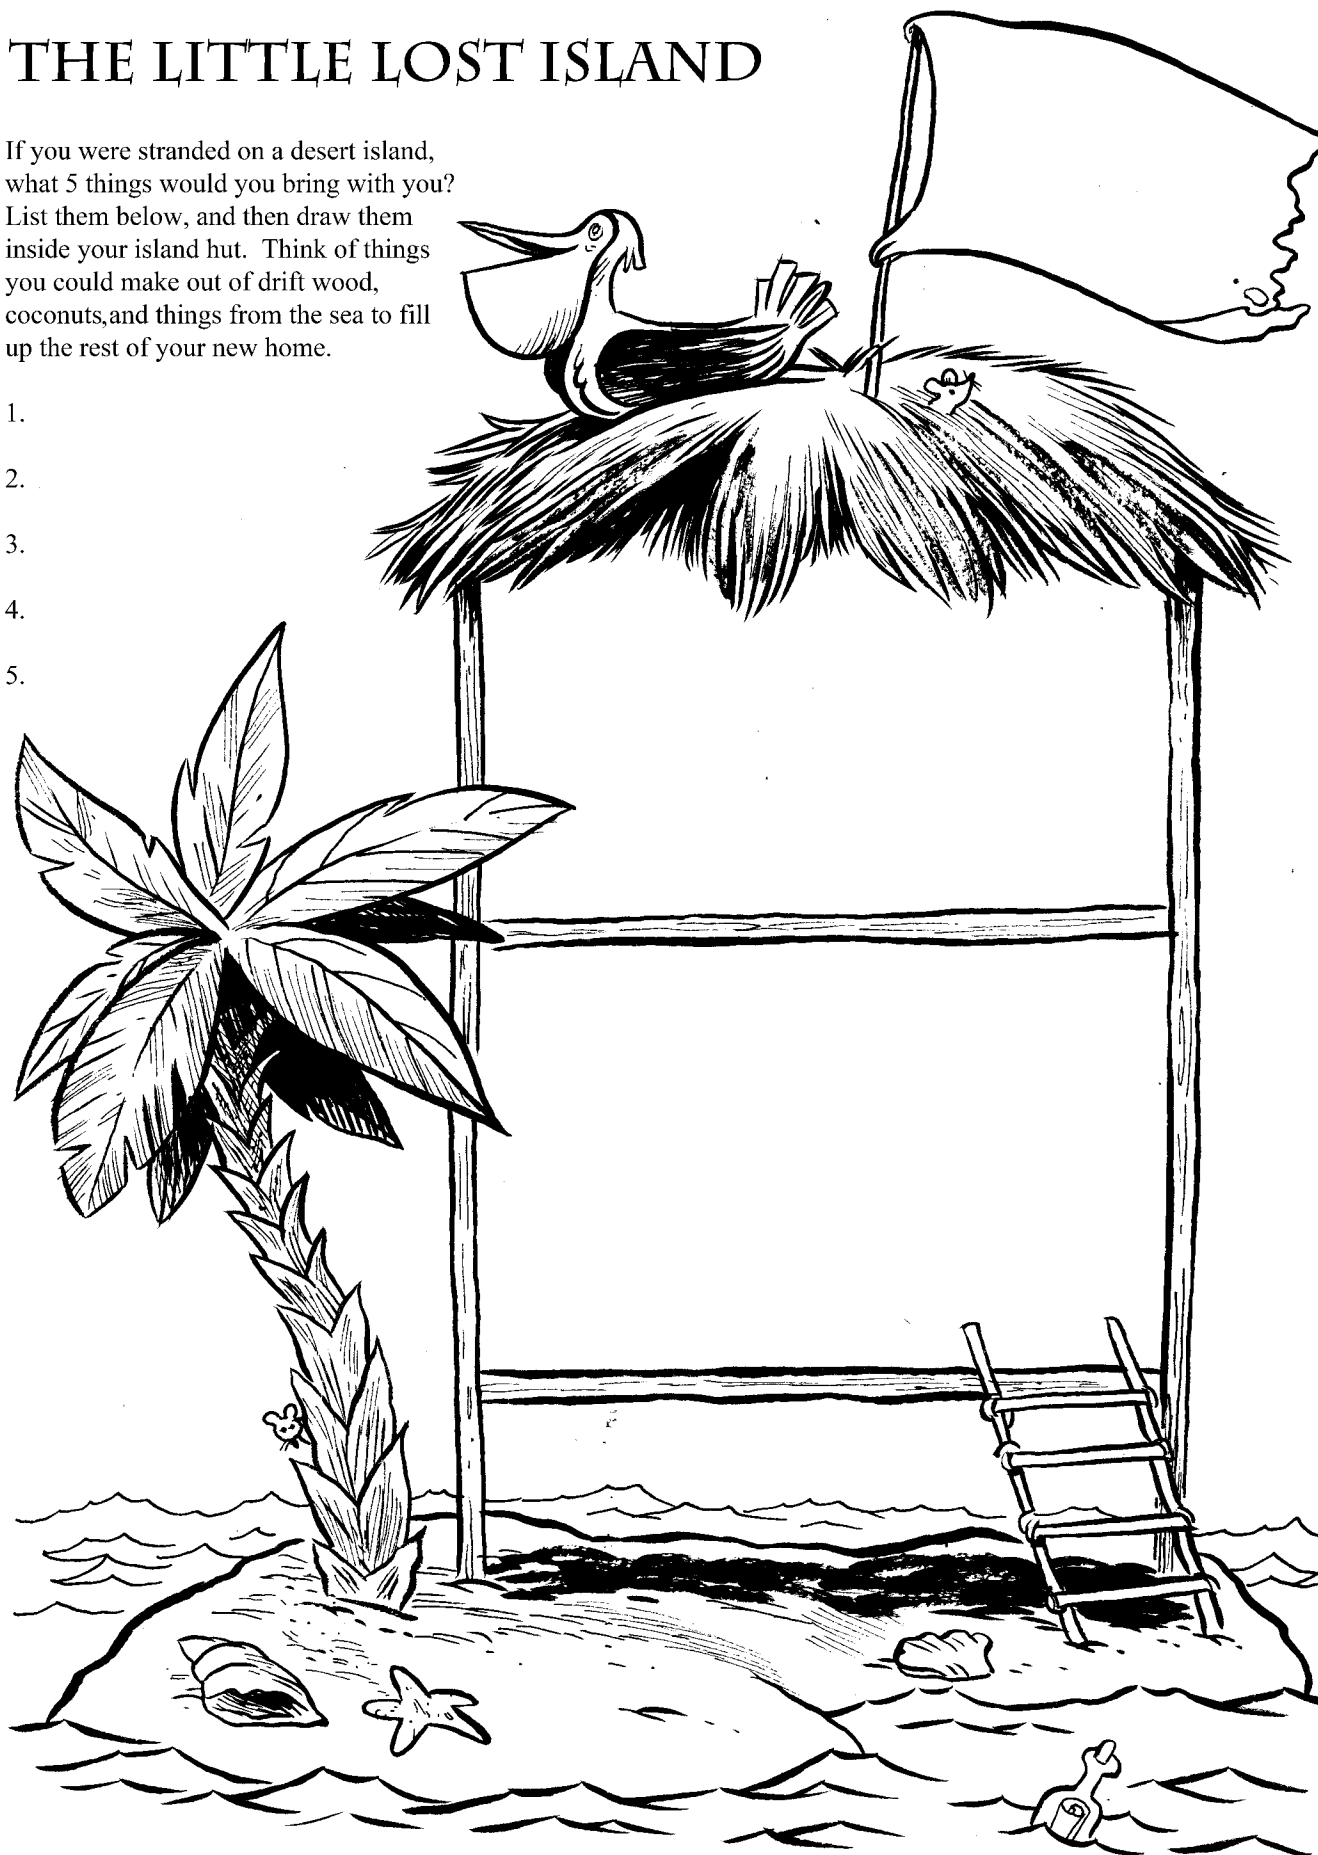

John Rackham (Calico Jack)

THE LITTLE LOST ISLAND

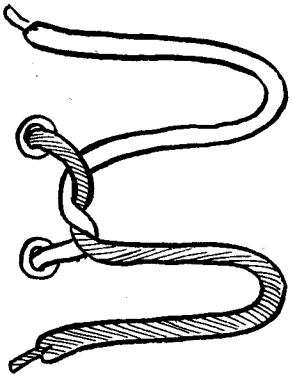

If you were stranded on a desert island, what 5 things would you bring with you? List them below, and then draw them inside your island hut. Think of things you could make out of drift wood, coconuts, and things from the sea to fill up the rest of your new home.

PIRATE'S SHOELACE KNOT

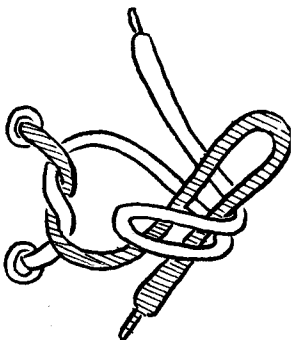

It's three times stronger than a regular shoelace knot!

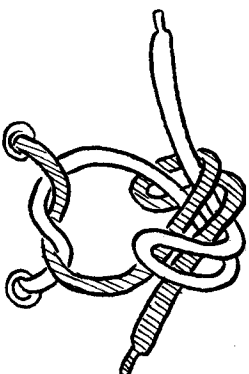

Tie a Left-over-Right Starting Knot as shown, then make both laces into "loops" by simply doubling them back onto themselves. People often refer to these as "Bunny Ears".

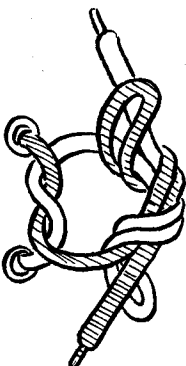

Cross the two loops over each other so that the right (gray) loop ends up in front and the left (white) loop ends up behind. The white loop is now the right loop.

Begin to wrap the right (white) loop around the left (gray) loop to end up in front.

At the same time, begin to wrap the left (gray) loop around the back. You will end up with the ends of both loops on opposite sides of the "hole" in the middle.

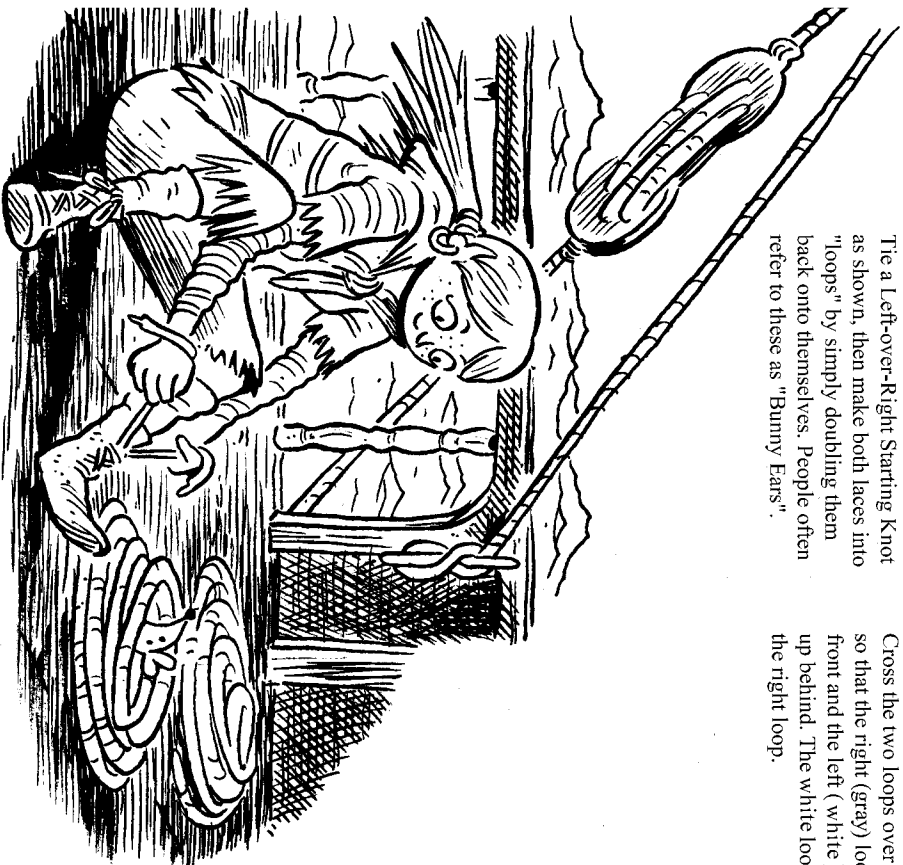

Feed both ends of the loops through the hole in the middle. The right (white) loop goes out the back and the left (gray) loop comes out the front.

Now, simply pull the loops to tighten the knot. The whole twisted mess of the previous drawing will rearrange itself into a neat finished knot. Trust me, it works!

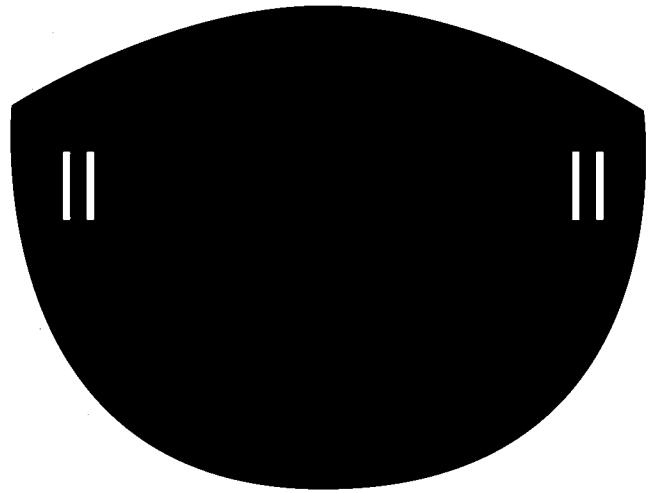

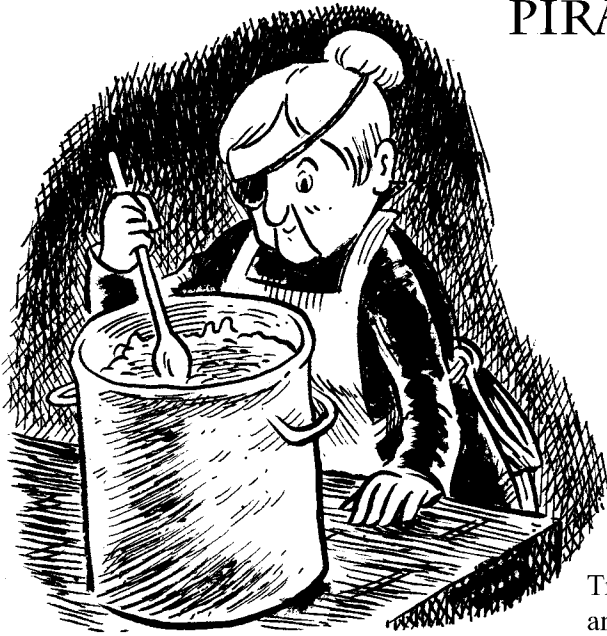

The finished knot should be a tight, closed knot with a symmetrical, double wrap around the middle, as compared to the single wrap of any Standard Shoelace Knot.

This knot is also known as the "Double Slip" and the Ian's Secure Shoelace Knot

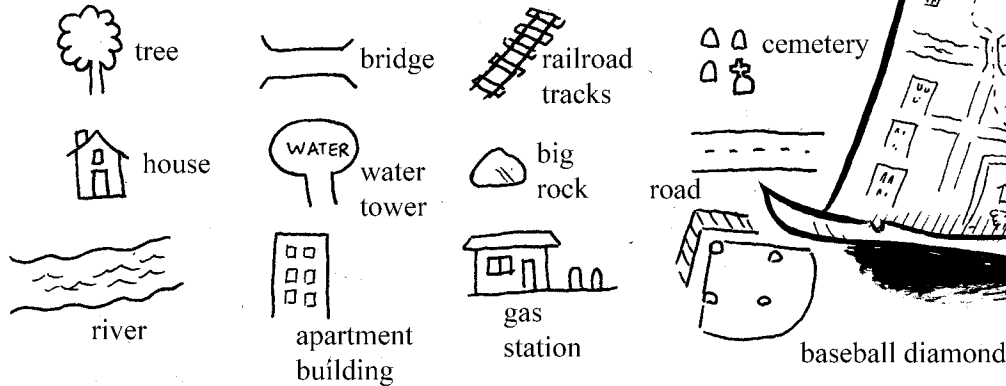

PIRATE EYE-PATCH!

Trace this pattern onto some old fabric (an old t-shirt, or wash cloth) and cut it out with a scissors. Make sure to make little cuts on the four little marks. Then take a shoestring or a piece of twine and tie it to one of the slits. Run the string in back of your head and measure how long it needs to be. Then tie it to the other slit! You're good to go pillage the high seas!

TREASURE MAP OF YOUR NEIGHBORHOOD!

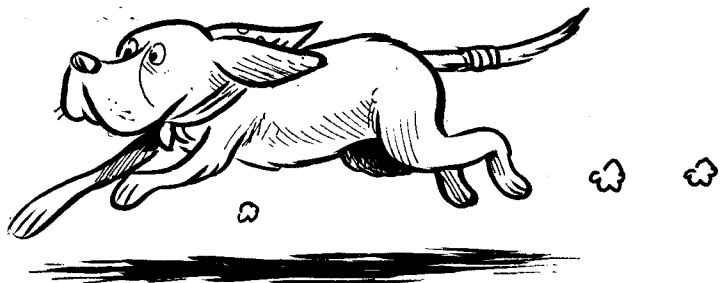

You can make a map of where you live using simple symbols like these. Feel free to make up more. On a new sheet of paper draw all your symbols in one corner. This is called a Legend. It helps people read your map. Now using the symbols draw your neighborhood! Where would YOU bury treasure?

OH, RATS!

Perrogi the dog LOVES to chase rats. There are 15 rats wandering around these pages.

Help her find them all!
